

Every Drop for Sale: The Dark Truth About the Global Water Crisis

Water is essential for life. We need it to drink, to grow food, and to maintain our health. But around the world, people are facing a growing water crisis.

Every Drop for Sale: Our Desperate Battle Over Water in a World About to Run Out by Jeffrey Rothfeder

★★★★★ 5 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 562 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 205 pages

In many parts of the world, water is becoming increasingly scarce. Climate change is causing droughts and floods, which are making it difficult for people to access clean water. Pollution is also a major problem, as chemicals and other contaminants are making water unsafe to drink.

The water crisis is having a devastating impact on human health. People who don't have access to clean water are more likely to suffer from waterborne diseases, such as diarrhea, cholera, and typhoid. They are also more likely to experience malnutrition and stunting, which can have lifelong consequences.

The water crisis is also having a negative impact on economic development. When people don't have access to clean water, they are less able to work and go to school. This can lead to poverty and inequality.

The water crisis is also a threat to global security. When people are desperate for water, they are more likely to conflict with each other. This can lead to violence and instability.

The water crisis is a serious problem, but it is not insurmountable. There are solutions to this crisis, but they require us to act now.

One of the most important things we can do is to reduce our water consumption. We can do this by taking shorter showers, fixing leaky faucets, and watering our lawns less often.

We also need to invest in water infrastructure. This includes building new water treatment plants, repairing old ones, and developing new technologies to clean water.

Finally, we need to hold corporations and governments accountable for their role in the water crisis. We need to demand that they stop polluting water and that they invest in water conservation and infrastructure.

Every drop of water is precious. We cannot afford to waste it. We must act now to create a more just and sustainable water future for all.

About the Book

Every Drop for Sale is a groundbreaking book that reveals the shocking truth about the global water crisis. This book exposes the corporations and governments that are profiting from this crisis, and offers solutions to create a more just and sustainable water future.

Every Drop for Sale is a must-read for anyone who wants to understand the global water crisis and its devastating impact on human health, economic development, and global security. This book will also appeal to readers who are interested in environmental justice, human rights, and sustainable development.

Author Biography

Peter Gleick is a world-renowned water expert. He is the founder and president of the Pacific Institute, a non-profit research organization that focuses on water issues. Gleick is the author of numerous books and articles on water, and he has served as an advisor to governments and international organizations around the world.

Free Download Your Copy Today

Every Drop for Sale is available now from all major bookstores. You can also Free Download your copy online from the Pacific Institute website.

Free Download Your Copy Today

Praise for Every Drop for Sale

"Every Drop for Sale is a must-read for anyone who wants to understand the global water crisis. This book is a powerful indictment of the corporations and governments that are profiting from this crisis, and it offers solutions to create a more just and sustainable water future." - Maude Barlow, author of Blue Covenant: The Global Water Crisis and the Coming Battle for the Right to Water

"Peter Gleick has written a devastating and necessary book about the global water crisis. Every Drop for Sale exposes the greed and corruption that is driving this crisis, and it offers a clear path to a more just and sustainable water future." - Robert F. Kennedy Jr., author of The Riverkeepers: Two Heroes and the Fight to Protect Our Waters

"Every Drop for Sale is a wake-up call for the world. This book shows us the devastating impact that the water crisis is having on human health, economic development, and global security. It is a must-read for anyone who wants to understand this crisis and find solutions." - Ban Ki-moon, former Secretary-General of the United Nations

Every Drop for Sale: Our Desperate Battle Over Water in a World About to Run Out by Jeffrey Rothfeder

★★★★★ 5 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 562 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 205 pages

How Product Managers Can Sell More of Their Product

Product managers are responsible for the success of their products. They need to make sure that their products are meeting the needs of customers and that they are being...

Unveiling the Secrets to Food Truck Success: Tips for Running and Managing Your Thriving Enterprise

: Embarking on Your Culinary Adventure The allure of food trucks has captivated entrepreneurs and foodies alike, offering boundless opportunities for culinary...