The Descriptive Paragraph

A description is an account that creates a vivid mental image.

The ability to describe people, places, or objects accurately is a useful life skill. Whether you are talking with a friend about the exact hairstyle you want, sharing a funny or startling scene from your day with a friend in an email, or reporting on the structure of a plant cell for a biology class, you will use description to make your point.

“Snow blows across the highway before me as I walk—little, wavering trails of sweat along like a people dispersed. The snow people—where are they going? Some great danger must pursue them. They hury and fall, the wind gives them a push. They get up and go on again.”
