Principles of Islamic Investment

Islamic investment is guided by the principles of Shariah law, which prohibits investments involving interest, gambling, alcohol, tobacco, and other activities considered unethical or harmful to society. These principles ensure that investments are made in companies and activities that contribute to economic growth, social well-being, and environmental sustainability.

Ethical Screening

Modern Islamic Investment Management employs rigorous ethical screening processes to identify investments that comply with Shariah principles. This involves analyzing companies' financial activities, business practices, and environmental impact. Only companies that meet the ethical criteria are considered for investment.

Risk Management

Prudent risk management is essential in Islamic Investment Management. Investment managers diversify portfolios across different asset classes, industries, and regions to reduce risk. They also employ sophisticated risk assessment and mitigation techniques to manage potential losses.
