Excerpt from My Daughter Carl

"My daughter Carl was born a boy, but she always knew that she was a girl. From a young age, she felt uncomfortable in her own body and longed to be seen as female. When she was 12 years old, she finally came out to me as transgender.

I was shocked and confused at first. I had never heard of transgender people before, and I didn't know what to think. But I loved my daughter unconditionally, and I wanted to support her in any way I could.

Carl and I embarked on a journey of self-discovery together. We learned about the transgender experience and the importance of acceptance. We also faced discrimination and prejudice from others, but we never gave up on each other.

Carl is now a happy and healthy young woman. She is proud of who she is, and she is grateful for the love and support of her family and friends."
