In Staredown: Another Year Inside Boxing, award-winning journalist John Feinstein delivers another unforgettable year ringside, taking readers on a journey through the highs and lows of the boxing world. From the biggest fights of the year to the heartbreaking stories behind the scenes, Feinstein provides an unparalleled look at the sport, its fighters, and its fans.

Feinstein's access and insights are unparalleled. He was there for the biggest fights of the year, including the epic heavyweight showdown between Deontay Wilder and Tyson Fury, the thrilling welterweight unification bout between Errol Spence Jr. and Terence Crawford, and the controversial middleweight title fight between Gennady Golovkin and Canelo Alvarez. But Feinstein also goes beyond the big fights, exploring the stories of the fighters who never make it to the spotlight, and the struggles they face outside the ring.

In Staredown: Another Year Inside Boxing, Feinstein paints a vivid portrait of the boxing world, a world of both brutality and beauty. He captures the adrenaline-fueled excitement of fight night, the pain and sacrifice of training, and the heartbreak of defeat. But he also celebrates the indomitable spirit of the fighters, their resilience, and their unwavering pursuit of glory.

With his trademark wit, insight, and compassion, Feinstein delivers a book that is both a love letter to boxing and a powerful indictment of its flaws. Staredown: Another Year Inside Boxing is a must-read for anyone who loves the sport, or anyone who wants to understand the human condition.
