Retirement is a time to relax, enjoy life, and pursue your passions. For many people, travel is a top priority. But what if you're on a budget? Or if you're not sure where to start? In their new book, Two Seniors And Year of Slow Travel On Budget, authors John and Mary Smith share their inspiring story of how they traveled the world for a year on a budget of just $20,000.

John and Mary are both in their early 70s. They've been married for over 50 years and have always loved to travel. But when they retired, they realized that they didn't have the money to travel the way they wanted to. So they decided to try slow travel.

Slow travel is a style of travel that emphasizes quality over quantity. It's about taking the time to experience a place, rather than rushing from one destination to the next. John and Mary traveled by train, bus, and ferry. They stayed in hostels, guesthouses, and even camped out in their car. They ate at local restaurants and shopped at local markets. And they made friends with people from all over the world.

Two Seniors And Year of Slow Travel On Budget is a heartwarming and inspiring account of John and Mary's journey. It's filled with practical tips, beautiful photography, and personal anecdotes that will inspire you to make your own travel dreams a reality.
